San Antonio Metropolitan Health District
Notice of Privacy Practices

Effective April 14, 2003

This notice describes how medical information about you may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information. Please read it carefully.

This Notice of Privacy Practice is provided to you as a requirement of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA). It describes how we may disclose your protected health information, with whom that information may be shared, and the safeguards we have in place to protect it. This notice also describes your rights to access and amend your protected health information. You will be asked to acknowledge receipt of this notice. Our intent is to make you aware of the disclosures of your protected health information and privacy rights. If you decline to sign the acknowledgement, we will continue to provide services, however, we will disclose your protected health information when authorized by law.

Our Duty: We are required by law to maintain the privacy of protected health information and to provide you with notice of our legal duties and privacy practices with respect to your protected health information. We are required to abide by the terms of this notice, however, we reserve the right to change this notice. Change to this notice will be effective on the date shown on the front cover and applies to health information we already have about you as well as any information we receive in the future. You may obtain a Notice of Privacy Practices from any San Antonio Metropolitan Health District (SAMHD) clinic.

Your Rights: You may exercise the following rights by submitting a written request to the SAMHD Privacy Officer.

Right to Inspect and Copy: You may inspect and obtain a copy of your protected health information that is in your medical record for as long as we maintain the record. Be aware that there is an established fee of making copies of your medical record. This right does not include inspection and copying information compiled in reasonable anticipation of, or use in, a civil, criminal, or administrative action or proceeding; and when access to protected health information is prohibited by law.

Right to Request Restrictions: You may ask us not to disclose any part of your protected health information. Requests should be noted on the Authorization for Release of Medical Records form. Restrictions are not transferable across SAMHD clinics and programs.

Right to Request Confidential Communications: You may request that we communicate with you using alternate means or at an alternate location. We will accommodate your request if possible.

Right to Request Amendment: If you believe the information we have about you is incorrect or incomplete, you may request an amendment to your protected health information as long as we maintain this information.

Right to Account for Disclosures: You may request in writing a list of disclosures we have made of your protected health information. The disclosures must have been made after April 14, 2003, and no more than 6 years from the date of request. This right applies to disclosures other than those listed below. Other uses and disclosures will be made only with your written authorization and you may revoke this authorization in writing at any time.
We may use and disclose your protected health information to provide, coordinate or manage your treatment/services. This includes other clinics, hospitals, specialists, pharmacists, laboratories, or social workers, which become involved in your care or services you receive.

We may use and disclose your protected health information to obtain payment for your treatment/services. This includes activities SAMHD performs before providing a service, such as determining eligibility or coverage for benefits, reviewing services provided for your medical necessity and utilization review activities. An example is determining eligibility for Medicaid/Medicare services.

We may use or disclose your protected health information to support the daily activities related to health care operations, to include but not limited to quality assessments, investigations, staff performance reviews, training, and arranging for other health care related activities. For example, we may contact you to provide appointment reminders or information about treatment alternatives or other health-related benefits and services that may be of interest to you.

We may use or disclose your protected health information as required by law. For example, in response to a court order or administrative tribunal, subpoena or other lawful process. Also, we may disclose your information if we believe that it is necessary to prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the health or safety of a person or the public, and if necessary, for law enforcement officials to identify or apprehend an individual.

As the Public Health Authority, we are permitted by law to use your protected health information to collect information for the following: to prevent or control disease, injury, or disability; report births and deaths; report child abuse or neglect; report reactions to medications or problems with products; notify a person who may be exposed to a disease or may be at risk for contracting or spreading a disease or condition; or notify government authority if we believe a patient is a victim of abuse, neglect, or domestic violence.

We may disclose your protected health information to a health oversight agency, such as the Texas Department of Health (TDH), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), or the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), for audits, inspections, and investigations, as authorized by law.

We may disclose your protected health information to researchers if an institutional review board (IRB) has reviewed and approved the research study, ensuring the privacy of protected health information.

We may disclose the protected health information of a minor when requested by a parent, except for services where the minor may consent without parental knowledge, then the parent must have the minor's permission.

We may disclose your protected health information to your family members involved in your care, or for notification.

Rights to Obtain a Copy of this Notice: You may obtain a Notice of Privacy Practices from any SAMHD clinic.

Complaints:
If you believe your privacy rights have been violated, you may submit a written complaint to the SAMHD Privacy Officer. No retaliation will occur against you for filing a complaint.
