ADMINISTRATIVE HISTORY:

A.C. "Jack" White (1891-1961) served as Mayor as well as Councilman on the City of San Antonio City Council. White was elected to a two-year term (1949-1951) as Mayor at the May 10, 1949 election, and designated as such by Ordinance 9528 (May 11, 1949, in City Council Ordinance Book S, Book 1 of 2, page 180).

White was re-elected to a second term as Mayor at the May 8, 1951 election, and designated as such by Ordinance 14799 (May 9, 1951, in City Council Ordinance Book W, Book 1 of 3, page 17). One of White's most significant actions during his second mayoral term was to transition the city from a commissioner to a city council-city manager form of government. The revised City Charter marking this transition was approved by a majority vote at an October 2, 1951 election, and adopted by Resolution at the Meeting of the Commissioners of the City of San Antonio, October 3, 1951 (page 565).

In order to accommodate the transition, and for the new government to take effect in January 1952, a special election was designated for November 13, 1951 by Ordinance 16173 (passed October 9, 1951, in City Council Ordinance Book W, Book 1 of 2, page 597), in order to elect "Nine (9) members of the Council of the City of San Antonio, Texas, being one each for Places numbered, respectively, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, each for a term of office which shall begin on January 1, 1952, and shall expire on April 30, 1953." The Councilmen were designated as elected by Ordinance 16507 (November 14, 1951, in City Council Ordinance Book X, Book 2, page 90).

As a result of this election, White won the seat as Councilman for Place 1. At the first City Council meeting of 1952, White was appointed Mayor for the current term by Resolution of the Council (in Meeting of the Commissioners of the City of San Antonio, January 1, 1952, page 83). The major changes that came with the Charter revisions, the new council-manager government, and annexation efforts, proved to be controversial at the time as well as to contribute to a degree of instability in city government. White resigned as Mayor effective March 1, 1952 (City Council Meeting Minutes, February 28, 1952, page 1), but he chose to remain as Councilman for Place 1 until the end of the term.

At the April 7, 1953 election, White was elected as Councilman for Place 4, as designated by Ordinance 18931 (April 8, 1953, in City Council Ordinance Book Y, page 514). Then, the City Council Meeting Minutes, May 1, 1953 (page 96) indicate that Council unanimously adopted a Resolution to appoint White to preside once again as Mayor. Toward the middle of the term, White offered his letter of resignation as Mayor, which was read at the August 19, 1954 City Council meeting (City Council Meeting Minutes, page 103), stating reasons of poor health. He continued as Councilman until September 9, 1954, when his resignation was accepted at the meeting on that date (City Council Meeting Minutes, page 133).

Prior to his entrance into politics, White worked as a hotel manager for some of the most prominent hotels in Texas. These include the White-Plaza, Robert E. Lee, and Gunter hotels in San Antonio; the Crazy Hotel in Mineral Wells, Texas; the New Hilton Hotel in Dallas; and the Westbrook and Worth hotels in Fort Worth. White was also active in soliciting Federal WPA Grants during the 1930s to fund the beautification of the San Antonio River, the project responsible for constructing most of San Antonio's Riverwalk.
