INTRODUCTION TO THE LAND USE PLAN

The Land Use Plan identifies the preferred land development pattern for the Government Hill Neighborhood Planning area. The Land Use Plan does not constitute zoning regulations or establish zoning district boundaries. The arrangement of different land use designations is based on existing uses, community discussions and policies from the City’s Master Plan. The land use classifications are described in the tables on pages 5 through 11.

After City Council approval of the Government Hill Neighborhood Plan Update, the Planning and Development Services Department will consult the Land Use Plan as a guide for developing staff recommendations for individual zoning cases.

The Government Hill Neighborhood Plan Update is being carried out in conjunction with an area-wide comprehensive rezoning. The Update process was broken down into phases in order to facilitate coordination with the comprehensive rezoning process. (See Phasing Map on pg. 16) Phase I was adopted in October, 2008. Staff began analysis for Phase II in Fall 2009.

Community involvement throughout this process revealed a number of factors of importance to residents in the planning area. One factor considered and addressed in the update process was industrial encroachment into existing, established residential areas. This issue was of primary importance in the area south of IH-35 and north of the railyard. Given the established industrial uses in this area, and the potential for conflict with existing low density residential uses, Low Density Mixed Use was introduced to the land use plan to allow a more appropriate transition from predominantly single-family residential use to a blend of residential and compatible commercial uses.

Another concern expressed by residents in the area was the preservation of existing single-family residential structures in established single-family areas. Medium density residential uses are located intermittently throughout these residential areas. The continued conversion of single-family structures into multiple unit dwellings is not desirable in these areas. Low Density Residential land use is an appropriate classification for the existing residential core of the area and will promote and protect the existing low density residential uses while recognizing the existence of conforming medium density residential uses.
Government Hill Neighborhood Plan Update

INTRODUCTION TO THE LAND USE PLAN (Continued)

Expansion of commercial opportunities in the planning area was another issue raised by residents in the public participation process. Mixed Use designations along North New Braunfels Avenue, Spofford Street, Rogers Street, and East Grayson Street allow a variety of well-integrated residential and low intensity commercial uses in this area. The Mixed Use land use classification was also placed on properties along Walters Street in order to capitalize on economic opportunities presented by Fort Sam Houston.

THE LAND USE PLAN AND ZONING

The Land Use Plan does not constitute zoning regulations or establish zoning district boundaries. The table below is meant to serve as a comparative guide to utilize when evaluating for “consistency” between development / rezoning proposals and the goals of the plan. More intense land uses may be allowed in less intense land use categories subject to conditional zoning or a specific use authorization that would facilitate context sensitive design in accordance with the plan’s goals and objectives.

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Light Yellow</td>
<td>Low Density Residential Development includes single-family residential Development on individual lots. Recommended development densities in Low Density Residential areas should not exceed 9 dwelling units per acre. The plan acknowledges that medium density uses that have historically existed in the neighborhood can remain; however the conversion of existing single-family homes into medium density units is discouraged. Lower-impact community uses such as schools, religious assemblies, parks and community centers can be included in this category and should be centrally located for convenient neighborhood access.</td>

<td>Medium Density Residential includes a variety of detached or attached dwellings, including single-family homes, townhomes and zero lot line configurations, duplexes, triplexes, and fourplexes. Recommended development densities in Medium Density Residential should not exceed 18 dwelling units per acre. This form of development should be located along collectors, or residential roads, and can serve as a buffer between low density residential and more intense land uses like commercial. This classification includes certain non-residential uses such as schools, religious assemblies, parks and community centers that are centrally located for convenient neighborhood access.</td>

Description

High Density Residential development includes multi-family developments with more than four units on a single lot, such as apartment complexes, but can also include Low Density and Medium Density residential uses. High Density residential uses generally exceed 18 dwelling units per acre.

This form of development should be located along collectors, arterials, or highways. It can function as a compatible transition between Medium and Low Density residential and higher intensity commercial uses.

This classification can include certain non-residential uses such as schools, religious assemblies, parks and community centers that are centrally located for convenient neighborhood access.

High Density Residential uses should be appropriately buffered from adjacent residential uses through landscaping, screening and lighting controls.

Permitted Zoning Districts: R-3, R-4, R-5, R-6, RM-4, RM-5, RM-6, MF-25, MF-33, MF-40, MF-50
Neighborhood Commercial includes low to moderate intensity, small scale retail, office or service uses serving the neighborhood area with low-impact convenience, retail, or service functions. Example of uses include convenience store, small insurance or doctors office, bakery, small restaurant, bookstore, antique shop, copy service, veterinarians office, or small, neighborhood sized grocery stores.

Locations for Neighborhood Commercial include the intersections of residential streets, within established commercial areas, along collectors, and within walking distance of residential areas.

Neighborhood Commercial can serve as an appropriate buffer between an arterial or collector and Low Density Residential uses.

Parking is encouraged in the rear of the buildings, and should be appropriately buffered from adjacent residential uses through landscaping, screening and lighting controls. Pedestrian amenities are strongly encouraged.
Mixed Use

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mixed Use</td>
<td>Mixed Use allows for a concentrated, well structured, and integrated blend of higher density residential, retail, professional services, office, entertainment, and other land uses. The integration of uses should occur within structures, as well as across the site, with commercial uses situated primarily along the higher order roadways, and on the ground floor level of individual structures. Shared parking located near the rear of the facilities, accessory dwelling and live/work units are encouraged.</td>

Building and Architectural Design

Building and architectural design of a mixed use development should stress quality, including open space, landscaping, and a safe, attractive, and pedestrian and bicycle friendly environment.

Shared parking located to the rear of structures, limited curb cuts and monument signs encouraged. | Community Commercial | Community Commercial provides for medium intensity land use that draws its customer base from two or more neighborhoods. Example of uses include a grocery store, a medical office, music store, shoe store, nursery, or mailing services store.

Community Commercial uses should be located along arterials or higher order roadways near intersections, or in established commercial areas.

Community Commercial is an appropriate buffer between low, medium, and high density residential uses, or between an arterial and low density residential.

Parking is encouraged in the rear of the buildings, appropriately buffered from adjacent residential uses through landscaping, screening and lighting controls. Monument signage, is strongly recommended, as are pedestrian amenities. Shared access is required.

A commercial retrofit pattern, a type of infill development, is allowed by right in commercial zoning districts. This type of infill development could transform surface parking lots into a town center with a mix of office, residential and commercial uses. |

Phased Area Wide Rezoning and Plan Update

The Land Use Plan update corresponds with an area-wide rezoning of the neighborhood. The update is being undertaken in phases in conjunction with the rezoning initiative. The City Council Communication Requests are referenced herein.

COUNCIL CONSIDERATION REQUEST

RE: Area wide rezoning
DATE: 8-Dec-2006

I ask for your support for the inclusion of the following item on the agenda of the earliest appropriate council hearing. I am respectfully requesting that the Development Service Department staff take appropriate steps in bringing forward to the Zoning Commission for its recommendation, and to City Council for final action, the rezoning of properties within the boundaries of the Government Hill Neighborhood Association, generally the area bound by Pt. Sam Houston on the north and east, Duval Si and the railroad tracks on the south, and Broadway on the west.

A significant number of single-family homes are zoned for multifamily uses. These single-family dwellings should be zoned for single family to preserve neighborhood character. Existing duplexes and multifamily dwellings would be grandfathered through a conditional use or with the multifamily zoning districts. Certain residential and commercial properties that are currently zoned industrial should be rezoned to the existing or future land use. Lower Broadway is currently experiencing commercial and mixed-use redevelopment. The industrial zoning along lower Broadway should be addressed, as this is the gateway to our cultural areas and parks. Many of these zoning inconsistencies are a result of cumulative zoning used in San Antonio's original 1939 zoning code that was converted to new zoning classifications in the 2001 Unified Development Code.

One or more community meetings should be held to educate the affected property owners on the zoning classification system, the zoning process, and how it relates to their property. The rezoning may be a phased process, first addressing the residential properties.

Your favorable consideration is requested.

Sincerely,

Sheila McNeil, District 2
