No provision of this article is designed or intended to conflict with or be preempted by the Federal Labor Standards Act (FLSA) (29 U.S.C. 201, et seq.) or the Texas Minimum Wage Act (TMWA) (Texas Lab. However, consistent with Section 15-272(C)(1), use of sick and safe leave shall not be required until after an employee has met the established requirements for employment benefit eligibility, as applicable.

(3) This article does not require an employer to provide an employee with more sick and safe leave in a year than the baseline amount specified in this section. An established eligibility period applying to the use of sick and safe leave may not exceed ninety (90) days from the start of employment. Employment benefit eligibility periods for the use of sick and safe leave are not applicable to, and do not supersede, any other timeline or eligibility requirement set out in state or federal law.

Indications of patterns of use may include but are not limited to, repeated use of unscheduled sick and safe leave on or adjacent to weekends, holidays, vacation, pay day, on days when other leave has been denied, or when mandatory shifts are scheduled. An employer must abide by all existing federal and state laws regarding discrimination and employment practices.

e. An employer that determines that an employee has failed to comply with the verification requirements set out in 15-273(c)(3)(b), (c) or (d), may address that failure consistent with its established disciplinary processes and procedures.

f. Confidentiality and nondisclosure. If, in conjunction with this article, an employer possesses health or medical information regarding an employee or an employee's family member or information pertaining to domestic abuse, sexual assault, or stalking of an employee or an employee's family member, the employer must treat such information as confidential and not disclose the information except with permission of the employee, when ordered by a court or administrative agency, or when otherwise required by federal, state or local law.
